SPEAKERS before the annual convention of the Arkansas Congress of Parent-Teacher associations at Little Rock Thursday and Friday brought out these two conflicting views: (1) That the liquor control program ought to be abandoned and the state returned to total prohibition, and (2) that the schools ought to be on guard against a raid upon the state sales tax at the next session of the legislature. An honest political observer would have tied the two together like this: The school organizations ought to see that the liquor control law is retained and made effective because it is bringing in $400,000 annually for charity, and if that $400,000 is lost through a return to prohibition then that $400,000 is certainly coming out of the schools' share of the sales tax.

"Times Is Bad But We're Eatin'," Hunt Hears in Gloomy Gayville

POLITICAL SWITCH

The town of Gayville belies its name. I could discover nothing about it that even in the slightest resembled gaiety. Its few streets of miserable frame houses reflect the melancholy somberness of its gloomy existence. Like many of the properties in this part of Westmoreland county, Pa., its mines were in "retreat." They had been better days.

It was a Saturday morning when I walked along a rutted, yellow clay road and stopped in at the grey painted houses, set on stilts high above the level of the grassless lawns. Miner's wives were scrubbing their back porches, and I was touched by their brave effort to sustain self-respect and cleanliness despite grinding poverty.

"My husband only gets about two days' work a week," Mrs. Opie told me. "Things are hard when you have two growing children, but we never asked for relief. Things are a lot better since the men are organized in a union. . . . My husband and both voted for Roosevelt and we're going to do it again. I guess everybody along here is for Roosevelt."

Speed Naturalization
Down the street I turned in at the home of Mrs. Poulich. Her boy helped translate the more difficult questions and answers. She and her husband had come from Czechoslovakia some years ago. Her husband had taken out his first papers and was hur-

Annual Hope-Prescott Classic Friday

Bobcats to Take Field in Nevada City at 8 o'Clock

Hope Is Top-Heavy Favorites, But Prescott Promises Real Battle

A FIELD CEREMONY

Prescott and Hope Queens to Be Crowned Before Game at Prescott

The Hope High School Bobcats, reported in good condition and in high spirits—awaited the opening whistle at 8 p. m. Friday that would send them against the Prescott High School football team at Prescott.

Coach Foy Hammons said that a squad of 18 men would dress here and climb aboard a Missouri Pacific bus at 6:30 for Prescott. The 37-piece Hope Boys band and many students and fans will follow.

A half-hour before the game is called appropriate ceremonies will be held at the field, including crowning of the Prescott and Hope football queens.

Prescott Queen
Miss Helen Hesterley will act as the Prescott queen. Her maids are Misses Johnson, Smith, Weaver, McCargo and Wilson.

The Hope queen, selected by the Bobcat football team, is Miss Mary Jane Richards. Her maids will be Misses Frances Snyder, Mary Urban, Mildred Johnson and Julia Broening.

Although Hope is a heavy favorite to win the annual game, promises color, fight and enthusiasm. The traditional conflict always attracts a large crowd.

The Bobcats, reported to be in top condition, will outweigh their opponents several pounds to the man. The Bobcats will also have an advantage in experience.

Coach Dobbie Ruie of Prescott said Friday that his team was in "fair" shape and would do its best in the battle against Hope.

Hope fans may obtain tickets at Hope Confectionery. Purchase price is 25 cents for students and 50 cents for adults.

Vote Consolidation in New York State

Reduction in Local Government Is Favored by 4-to-1 Majority

NEW YORK.—(AP)—By a referendum vote of more than 3 to 1, New York voters in last Tuesday's election approved an amendment to the state constitution for reform and reorganization of obsolete and expensive forms of county government.

It is estimated that a house-cleaning of antiquated and wasteful methods of county administration in the state, especially the abolition of useless and overlapping offices, would permit the elimination of county "spoils systems" costing the taxpayers a total of approximately $18,000,000.

The larger cities where county and city governments operate in joint nature, largely approved county reform. New York voters gave it a 4-to-1 majority.

County reform in New York state has been advocated for many years by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Gov. Herbert Lehman and others. In New York city, although it will strike principally at Tammany Hall, it was a nonpartisan issue.

The amendment permits counties to simplify and reduce costs of local governments. Counties outside New York city will be provided models by the legislature upon which to vote in

Atkinson, Law and Church Leader, Dies

Famed Arkansas Chancellor Succumbs to Long Illness at 83

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Chancellor William E. Atkinson, 83, of Conway, former Arkansas attorney general, died at a Little Rock hospital early Friday following an operation last Monday.

The widely known attorney and jurist received treatment for several months prior to the operation, in which he sought complete recovery from an ailment of years.

Judge Atkinson was widely known, not only as an attorney and jurist, but as a leader in the state and southern Baptist conventions, and in the causes of education and temperance.

Born in Alabama July 24, 1852, of Georgia Anglo-Saxon stock, he was one of five children of W. W. and Barbara Wilder Atkinson who removed to Arkansas in 1837. His father became a Columbia county planter and served in the war between the states.

Judge Atkinson received his early education in the country schools of Nevada county, afterwards attending Washington and Lee University in Virginia, where he was graduated in law in 1872, before he was 20.

Admitted to the bar in 1874, he began practice at Rosston, Ark., and later pursued private practice at Prescott until elected attorney general in 1888, carrying every county in the state except two.

After serving two terms, he retired to re-enter practice at Little Rock, then moved to Clarksville in 1911, accepted appointment as inheritance tax attorney in 1921 and shortly thereafter was appointed chancellor of the ninth chancery circuit.

While living in Little Rock, he was one of a group credited with breaking

Grand Jury Raps Pastor's Charges

Rev. Blaylock "Sincere" But Listened to Rumor Rather Than Fact

LITTLE ROCK.—The Pulaski county grand jury's two-day special investigation into charges brought by the Rev. Arden P. Blaylock, pastor of the First Baptist church, that city and county officials were failing to enforce laws against gambling and other vice decided Thursday when the grand jury decided that:

1. The Rev. Mr. Blaylock was sincere in his efforts.

2. His charges were based on rumors rather than legal evidence.

3. Commercial gambling has not increased within the past year.

4. Charges were of laxity in law enforcement are unfounded.

The grand jury made its report after having examined 33 of the 40 witnesses upon which subpoenas were served. Even witnesses were excused.

Sheriff Branch, chief targets of the affidavits and other evidence offered by the Rev. Mr. Blaylock, said he was pleased with the report. The jury revealed that two of the four witnesses who had made affidavits repudiated them. One was not signed. In affidavits charged that deputies were required to pay $25 monthly for their jobs and also that deputies had been guilty of malfeasance.

U.S. Cotton Crop Cut 300,000 Bales; Is Now 11,141,000

Drastic Reduction Made November 8 From Estimate a Month Ago

LARGER THAN 1934

Last Year's Production 9,636,000—State 905,000 This Year

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A cotton crop of 11,141,000 bales this year was reported Friday by the Department of Agriculture as indicated from conditions November 1.

A production of 11,464,000 bales was indicated a month ago.

Last year's crop was 9,636,000 bales. Ginnings from this year's crop prior to November 1 were reported by the Bureau of the Census to be 7,749,635 bales.

The indicated crop by states included: Arkansas: 905,000 bales.

The bank's paying teller, Albert Bauman, emptied his gun at the robbers as they fled in a waiting automobile.

Several shots hit the car and police expressed the belief that one of the men was wounded.

New Highway Shop Building for City

WPA Approves $10,000 to $12,000 Project for Hope Headquarters

LITTLE ROCK.—The State Highway Commission has filed application for WPA labor projects to build permanent highway shops in six of the 10 highway districts, highway department officials said Thursday.

The application for construction of a building at Hope has been approved and it was said that approval of a similar project at Camden is expected soon. Location of the other projects was not revealed.

Under the plan the Highway Department would provide materials and supervision and the WPA would furnish labor for construction of buildings to cost from $10,000 to $12,000 on one to two acre sites located on a main highway at the outskirts of the towns in which the shops are located.

Sixth Davenport of the district office at Hope, in the absence of W. H. Johnson, maintenance supervisor, Friday urged immediate action by civic leaders in obtaining a suitable site for the proposed new building and shop.

Mr. Davenport said that it would be up to the city to furnish the location for a permanent highway shop and office building. He said that the project for construction of the building had been approved and that actual work could be started when the location is made.

Mr. Davenport pointed out that District Three highway office and shop at Hope meant a substantial payroll for this city, and that the promise of a permanent location here with a $12,000 building should be acted upon without delay.

Liquor Policy Hit by P-T. A. Speaker

State Meeting Outlined to Guard Against Sales Tax Raid

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Dr. J. H. Reynolds, president of Hendrix college, sounded a call to arms before the Arkansas Education association Friday to prevent diversion of funds from the state sales tax that have been set aside for school purposes.

Dr. Reynolds declared that at the next session of the legislature "they are proposing to divert funds from the sales tax for other causes."

Liquor Policy Rapped
LITTLE ROCK.—A crowd that filled every seat in the senior high school auditorium Thursday night for the opening session of the Arkansas Education Association's annual convention heard Mr. Scott Wood of Hot Springs, president of the Arkansas Congress of Parents and Teachers, call for a coordination of the groups that seek a general change in the affairs of the state.

Rapping the "vicious attitude of our state officials in legalizing liquor and thus thrusting it under the nose of every boy and girl of our state," she pledged the force of the organization she heads to take the lead in bringing about such co-ordination and called upon the Education Association to aid.

"Our biennial legislature is a shining example of a state that has moved forward little in the last 25 years," she said, "for we continue to elect to its membership individuals who are wholly unqualified and untrained to settle the vital issues of our state, or to provide guidance for the welfare of our people."

"After each session of the legislature the wall is heard, 'Did you ever see such a travesty on the patience and intelligence of any people?' But what do we do about it? We continue with bankrupt counties unable to hold their courts and pay the costs of their government because we haven't the intelligence to realize that we are living in a new world that could operate far better with one-half or one-third as many counties."

Howls about the high cost of education are cut off place when they come from persons who draw salaries from the state treasury for jobs that are long outmoded, she said.

"We continue year after year stupid practices that eat up our funds, make us a source of ridicule to intelligent, progressive people and turn a large number of the citizens of our state into cynics who regard the whole situation as hopeless," Mrs. Wood continued. "They have seen so many reform movements started by organizations which soon died from one cause or another, usually because of the apathy of the organizations which began them."

Program Outlined for Farm Youths

New Club Organization for Young Adults Who Didn't Go to Town

A newly-developed program intended to lead young farm people into farm-ownership, at a time when the drift of young folks from country to town has been checked by industrial unemployment, was outlined to farm and home demonstration agents from southwest Arkansas at an all-day meeting in Hope Friday.

Young adult rural folks will be organized into Junior Adult 4-H clubs the first week in December, the visiting speakers told the county agents gathered here.

The program is designed to reach an estimated 100,000 young people in Arkansas who under ordinary circumstances would have left the farms to seek employment by industry in the business centers through this normal movement of population that has been going on in America for years. But the depression left them on the farm with their parents and without any immediate personal opportunity or program—which the Junior Adult 4-H club organization will attempt to provide.

The speakers were headed by Dean and Director Dan T. Gray of the College of Agriculture, University of Arkansas; and included the following:

C. C. Randall, acting assistant director; J. L. Wright and Miss Ella Posey, district agents; L. C. Baber, assistant state 4-H club agent; and K. B. Roy, agricultural editor of the University of Arkansas.

Hope is one of four cities at which these halliers are scheduled. Meetings were held earlier in the week at Pine Bluff and Jonesboro. Following the meeting at Hope the speakers will close their tour Saturday at Morrilton.

Troops Overlook City
The columns of Gen. Alessandro Pirzio-Belli halted at noon on the higher ridge overlooking Makale to allow their supply trains to catch up. At dawn Thursday they pushed to their present position in a quick start; at dawn tomorrow they expect to march on and beyond Makale.

Now the columns commanded a series of small valleys, leading directly down into the city.

On the right they were reported by the column of Gen. Pietro Maravigna, coming down from Adduwa. On the extreme left were the "mystery" Danakil forces of Col. Mario Marchetti. These latter, officials say, have obtained their objective.

Traitorous Kin of Selassie Rides at Head of Invaders

Ras Haile Selassie Gugsa Takes Over One-Time Royal Palace

ADVANCE ON SOUTH

Harar, New Railroad Line Falls at About Same Hour as Makale

By the Associated Press
With the traitor Ras Gugsa at their head, the leaders of Rome swarmed into Makale Friday.

Makale, like Adduwa, Aksum and Adigat before it, fell without resistance.

Swarming in the van of the invading troops was Ras Haile Selassie Gugsa, the Benedict Arnold of Ethiopia. He went straight to the castle of former King John—for Makale was once the royal seat—and established himself by right of might as governor of the rich Tigre province.

The continued refusal of the Ethiopian warriors to challenge the Italian advance means that Emperor Selassie has a definite strategy arranged.

AT THE FRONT WITH THE ITALIAN NORTHERN ARMIES.—(AP)—Italy's central columns bivouacked Thursday night on a mountain rim in sight of Makale, ready to push into one past that city in a dawn drive.

Friday's scattered battles in the Fascist field were trained upon the heights on Makale and nearby Dolo.

Messages from native runners and scouting patrols said that scattered regulars of the negus, returning to Makale, had been received frigidly by the populace, most of them departing.

Precautions Taken
But their presence on the streets of the objective city caused the high staff of the Italian advance to take every precaution. At headquarters officers explained Wednesday's hand-to-hand encounter near Haudien, with casualties on both sides, meant the Ethiopians were placing most of their hope of success in filtering back into occupied territory.

Thus they could fall upon the Italians from the flank and, if possible, from the rear.

Aerial observers also reported groups of the enemy marching behind Makale, and it was thought likely widely scattered encounters might take place as the Fascist advance guards pushed on beyond Makale Friday.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

Of all the diseases which afflict us, those spread by the mouth and nose seem to be the most serious and most prevalent.

Although such diseases are more frequent in climates like that of the northern part of the United States, they occur also in tropical countries. Occasionally an epidemic of influenza will sweep the world.

A survey made not long ago in a large American city indicated that, for every person who died from a disease affecting the respiratory, or breathing tract, there were 337 additional cases in the community.

While these diseases are spread frequently by coughing, spitting, and kissing, they also are spread by other means which can be grouped under the heading, hand-to-mouth infection.

The person who is infected may wash dishes and dry them, may transmit the infectious material to door knobs, to pencils, or other objects. These are then handled by someone else, who gets the germs on his fingers and carries them from his fingers to his own mouth, nose and throat.

Unfortunately there is no way to lock up people who have respiratory infections, because if it could involve most of the people in the community, it is possible for you, however, if you have such a condition, to make certain that you are doing everything that can be done to keep from spreading your infection to other people. You can cover up each cough and sneeze. During periods of infection you can avoid the contacts that have been mentioned.

From a public health point of view, people who expectorate promiscuously should be fined and controlled. Common drinking cups and roller towels should be abolished, and eating places should be compelled to use boiling water for cleansing glasses, cups, spoons and similar utensils, every time they are used.

In hospitals, orphan asylums, and similar institutions, people who suffer from coughs and colds and who must remain at work can, of course, wear face masks during the time when they are in contact with other people.

During the great influenza epidemic of 1918 an elevator man wore a face mask, but always lifted it when he was about to cough. In other words, he was of the selfish type who was protecting himself, but did not care how many other people he infected.

Before we gain any control whatever over the respiratory diseases, we shall all have to develop a public health conscience!

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

Rockwell Kent has been rusticated in Greenland, and he comes back to report that life up there is pleasant, peaceful, and full of beauty, and not altogether devoid of the social graces.

He tells about it in "Salamina," a book which is made notable by the profusion of sketches which he has drawn for it. The text, unfortunately, does not come up to the level of the pictures, but we can't have everything.

Mr. Kent went to Greenland to make pictures and to get away from the annoyances of 20th century living. Greenland, he found, is ideally designed for both purposes. With the help of the grinning natives, he built a house. Then he settled down to a year of painting, whale fishing, and getting acquainted with the neighbors.

The Eskimos proved to be friendly and simple souls. They are fond of informal get-togethers in the evening, with a score of more of merry-makers crowding into a 10-by-12 living room. They like to dance, and they convinced Mr. Kent that while hide, eaten raw, is really a tasty dish.

Their women seem to be a complaisant lot. Once or twice it almost seems as if Mr. Kent is going to write something entitled "Casanova in Greenland," but he gets away from it, at last, and contrives to get across the feeling of freedom, of limitless space, of unspoiled beauty, which the tremendous open landscapes and clear skies of this frozen northland gave him.

Published by Harcourt, Brace & Co., the book sells for $3.75.

Holding Company Bill Held Invalid

Abolition Measure Loses First Round in U. S. District Court

BALTIMORE, Md.—(AP)—The 1935 holding company act designed to give the government power for a sweeping reorganization of the utility industry—was held invalid "in its entirety" Thursday.

Federal District Judge William C. Coleman instructed trustees of the American States Public Service company to treat the act as "invalid and of no effect."

Matthews came into the room and Larry called him. He came over and looked at the number, which Larry was copying into a notebook.

"That's not a Chicago exchange," said Matthews.

"No?"

"No. Anyhow, all Chicago numbers would have four numerals."

Larry gave the number another scrutiny. "That's been written recently," he said. "You can tell—look—it isn't smudged or faded."

Matthews bent to take a second look and nodded agreement. He called Gunderson, and when the agent reached his side he said:

"Look, Gundy, copy that number and then slide down to the phone company headquarters and find out where in the United States there's an exchange named Midlothian. You may have to spend half the night at the job, but find out. I know it's not a Chicago exchange, and I doubt if it's anywhere in this area. I never heard of it before, anyhow. But stick with it until you find out. Look up the phone company's traffic manager—man named Edward Smith—he's a pretty good scout and he'll see you get the help you need."

Gunderson copied the number and then reported that they had finished recording all the fingerprints that could be found.

"We'll go back downtown and develop these prints and compare them with what we've already got," said Larry. "By that time we ought to be hearing from Gunderson."

So they all went back to Matthews' office, through the late afternoon traffic rush. An hour later LaRocco handed Larry the pictures he had developed, still moist. Larry spread them on a table and compared them with the facsimiles of the Jackson gang's prints which he carried with him.

"Well, it's no surprise, of course, but these are the birds," he said at last. "Most of these prints are pretty badly smudged, but we've enough to go on. Here's Red Jackson's, big as life, and Winky Lewis's. That's enough."

As he was putting his facsimile cards back into his pocket the door opened and Gunderson came in. "It's back in your bailiwick, Mr. Glenn," said Gunderson. "That phone number is in a little town named Midlothian, about a hundred miles from Dover. It belongs to a farmer named Engle, who lives out on the edge of town."

Canada's New Ruler in Office

Announcement in New York that an appeal would be taken, apparently headed the case toward the Supreme Court of the United States.

Judge Coleman took the position that congress "flagrantly exceeded its lawful power" under the constitution in enacting the measure by which elimination of most of the holding companies in the nation's vast utilities network was sought.

Assailing the new law on four main grounds, he described it as "grossly arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious."

Included in the "legal staff attack" on the act was John W. Davis, 1924 Democratic nominee for president.

Mrs. Sid Henry

Telephone 821

Sorrow comes and sorrow goes
Life is flecked with shine and shadows
Now the tear of grieving flows,
Now we smile in happy hours.
Burdens that our neighbors bear,
Easier let us try to make them;
Chains, perhaps, our neighbors wear,
Let us do our best to break them;
From the straightened hand and mind
Let us loose the binding fetters,
Let us as the Lord designed,
Make the world a little better.
—Selected.

UNTIL YOU COME

By Helen Welshimer

UNTIL you come again, my dear—
Each time you go away
These words become a litaney
I breathe and think and say.

AND all the time I'm reading books,
Or walking in the sun,
Or sleeping, dusting, serving tea,
Or marketing, dear one,

MY thoughts are merely steps along
The road that leads to you.
Dear one, how lovely it would be,
If you felt that way, too!

Today's Patterns

Your little girl will love this coat. A play suit worth making.
Pattern 484 Pattern 670

WHEN those north winds blow, the snow suit will be just the thing needed for the young member of the family. A three-piece outfit, the cuffs fit closely and the trousers have extra knee patches. Make it of heavy woolen. Patterns are sized 2 to 10 years, size 4 requiring 5-8 yard of 54-inch fabric for ski-pants and 3-4 yard for jacket and hat. The brother and sister coat (No. 484) is as cute as anything you'd want. Use herringbone tweed, chinchilla or camel-hair polo cloth. Patterns are sized 4 to 10 years, size 6 requiring 1-2 yards of 54-inch fabric and 1-2 yards of 35-inch lining plus 1-2 yard canvas for interfacing.

Gov. Allen to Quit and Enter Senate

Noe to Appoint Him and Take Governorship, Is Louisiana Report

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Oscar K. Allen is considering resigning immediately to assume the United States Senate seat vacated by the recent death of Huey P. Long.

A plan whereby he would resign and be appointed to the Senate by Lieut. Gov. James A. Noe, who would ascend to the governorship was understood as agreed upon here late Thursday, as the Democratic State Central Committee met and set January 21 as the date of a primary to name a senator for Long's unexpired term for which Allen has announced. He might resign before the primary and Noe make the appointment.

Asked without his plans, Allen said: "Louisiana won't be without representation!"

Allen, earlier in the day proclaimed April 21 for a general special election to select a senator for the short term. Allen J. Ellender, speaker of the house, will run for the full seat at term beginning in January 1937, and Allen for the short term.

Pennsylvania Coal

rying through with his final ones so that he could vote. He would vote for Roosevelt. Yes, there were many foreign-born miners who, although they had lived here many years, had never bothered to become citizens. But they were taking out their papers now. Their union leaders were urging them to do so that they could vote for Roosevelt next year.

We stopped a slender man with steel-gray eyes, who looked as if he might be 45. "Miners would like to be treated as well as the owners treat their mules," he said. "When the shut down the mines they don't turn the mules out to starve. And when they're working they keep their stables white-washed and a vet looks 'em over every day. Mules cost money. Human beings don't. We just want to be treated as good as mules." But maybe he'd been fighting with his wife that morning.

We strolled along the back doors of the shacks. On one of the half-tumbled-down porches an immense old colored woman was putting around. My guide explained who I was and we fell to talking.

"We come up here from Alabama eight years ago," the old mammy said. "Times is bad but we's eatin' all right."

I suggested that of course she was a Republican. "You all means I WAS a Republican," she answered with a deep chuckle.

Subsistence Miners
We left shantytown and drove up a winding clay lane to a like to a shaggy hill, with oak and elm and hard-maple trees just beginning to turn golden and red. In front was an arbor laden with grapes, and below was a patch of field corn and a half-acre garden. To the right was a shed and tiny barn and, beyond, a pig sty and chicken house. A Jersey cow was munching grass in a little pasture beyond.

A smiling old negro came down the rickety steps and tipped his hat to us. He was "Major" Walker. He owned this four acres and the cow and sow and hens. He'd been a coal miner for 40 years. Now he was a miner and farmer.

This old dorky has solved the problem of how to live. He is a true subsistence worker under his own power. He eats his own home-grown food. He sleeps under his own roof. He farms two acres of his four. His white sow presents him with three litters of sturdy pigs every two years. His chickens and cow work for him while he sleeps. He is not in the slightest concerned whether he works two days or five days a week in the mines—or whether he does not work at all.

"Workin' people is got to come to this," the "Major" said, scratching his wise old gray head. "Maybe the government should have put all that money they spent feedin' folks into help gettin' 'em started so's they kin help themselves."

Mine Future Is Dark
Pittsburgh lies some 40 miles to the eastward from the "Major's" sylvan security. I talked to many coal men there, but there are two whom I would quote. The first is J. D. A. Morrow, the very able president of Company. The Mellon-owned Pittsburgh Coal "Within ten years only the completely modernized coal mine will have survived," he explained to me. "Of the present 500,000 bituminous coal miners at least one-half will be replaced by machinery. During the past ten years some 100,000 miners have been replaced by machine methods and another 100,000 have been put on the permanently unemployed lists through the substitution of gas and electric power. America has a possible annual yield of 500,000,000 tons. Our normal consumption of 500,000,000 tons has been cut down by the depression and the use of other fuels to around 340,000,000 tons."

My second interview was Phil Murray, the extremely intelligent First Vice-President of the United Mine Workers. "As a result of the opportunity offered us under Section 7A we have been able to unionize 95 per cent of the miners of this country," he explained. "The United Mine Workers have some 550,000 men organized. We have 320,000 in Pennsylvania alone. "I don't hesitate to say that 95 per cent of them are for Roosevelt. They actually look upon him as a savior. I think that it is a foregone conclusion that this state will go for Roosevelt. In Western Pennsylvania alone there are more than 100,000 steel workers and an equal number of miners. They have changed the whole political outlook. For instance, in Lafayette county the steel interests always controlled every branch of the government. Now there are 15,000 more Democrats registered there than Republicans."

Democratic Swing
Second only to New York stands Pennsylvania's 38 electoral votes. Hoover won them in 1932. If Roosevelt can capture them in 1936 his election would be secure. Figures may be a little bit, but they sound to be impressive. Let's look at a few:

In Allegheny county, based on registered Democratic votes. Today there are 237,000. In 1932 Roosevelt carried the county by 37,000. In 1934 Searle in his race for the governorship drew a plurality of 73,000 in the county—and carried the state and his Democratic ticket by 66,000.

But even more startling are the figures for Westmoreland county. In 1930 there were 85,000 registered Republican voters and 25,000 Democratic voters. In 1932, although the Republican registration was still 30,000 greater than the Democratic, Roosevelt carried the county by 15,000. In 1934, although the registration showed 10,000 majority for the Republicans, the Democrats carried the county by more than 19,000. In 1935 there were 65,000 Democrats and 65,000 Republicans registered.

"Printing That Makes an Impression"

By BLOSSER

THE first qualification of a halfback coach looks for is looseness at the hips. If a fellow is loose in that section of the body, he can be developed into a running back with the elusiveness of a Red Grange.

A halfback is not necessarily required to hit the line. One of the backs can be a bit heavier than the other for this duty, or the fullback can be relied on entirely for line bucks. But one of the halves must be shifty, able to pick holes, with plenty of leg drive.

One of the most valuable steps a halfback can master is the side-step. In using this way of eluding tacklers, he holds the ball in the arm away from his opponent, shows him a leg, and then by means of the hip muscles, pulls the leg away by jumping to the side. The straight-arm is used with this step to make it more effective.

ing up an alleged gambling ring in the capital by selling gambling paraphernalia and burning it on the public square.

He was consistently active in behalf of the Democratic party except in the 1896 campaign, when he temporarily withdrew from activity because he was not in sympathy with the party's free silver drive.

A Baptist leader

For 40 years, he participated prominently in the state and southern Baptist conventions, was three times president of the state group, held important board posts in the southern convention and was an ardent temperance worker. He assisted in locating and building Ouachita college at Arkadelphia, and was one of its trustees from its founding, once serving as president of the board for more than a decade. A devotee of southern literature, his private library contains an impressive collection of the South's writers.

He was married in 1874 to Miss Hattie Williams of Ouachita county. They had four children. Mrs. Atkinson died in 1884 and Judge Atkinson was subsequently married to her sister, Miss Lillian Williams. To this union was born one son, W. W. The second Mrs. Atkinson died in 1889.

In 1891, Judge Atkinson married Miss Lillie Powers, of Augusta, Ky., and they had three children.

Under the general subject, "A New Concept of Adult Education," led by Mr. Akers, and participated in by Griffin Smith, state comptroller; C. P. Newton, member of the state Corporation Commission; Albert Graves, mayor of Hope, and Dr. A. F. Harmon of Monticello, Ala., fifth vice president, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, the responsibility of public servants, weaknesses in the legislative system and problems of municipalities were discussed.

Unanimous endorsement was given the movement launched by the congress in the creation of community councils for public forums, in resolutions adopted at the morning session, at which Mrs. O. A. Graves of Hope, first vice president, presided.

local elections. An alternative choice is provided.

The situation is treated differently in New York city, where five large counties are encompassed by the city proper.

It provides for reform and modernization by giving the Municipal Assembly power to abolish any county offices within the city limits, except that of judge, county clerk, and district attorney, and to reassign functions of any office thus abolished.

Sixty of These Ships Will Form New U. S. Armada

The funds donated for this little button will go to support the efforts of this organization in the care of children "left fatherless by the war, or orphans or disabled veterans' children. The bulk of the funds collected here will be used by the local Legion and Auxiliary in meeting the needs of these children in this community during the coming year.

In her discussion of this work Mrs. Arthur Swanke had this to say: "The welfare of veterans' children is a constantly expanding responsibility of the American Legion and Auxiliary. Injury and disease are taking a steady toll from the ranks of the veterans, and nearly every veteran now dying is becoming disabled has dependent children. My committee is at work continuously bringing aid and care to such children, and we must look to the Flag Button contributions for our chief support in this work."

The local Flag Button sale is being conducted as part of the state-wide plan and the interest of every citizen in the community is urged in this worthy program of service.

Oil Waste Found to Be Gas Supply

Gulf's Discovery to Extend Nation's Oil Reserves for Years

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—A new process which makes synthetic gasoline from the wastes of natural gasoline manufacture promises to extend the nation's oil reserves by many years.

This new development of the oil industry was reported Thursday for the first time to the group of industrialists and bankers touring industrial research centers under sponsorship of the National Research Council.

Basic materials in the process are hydrocarbons, among the chief constituents of natural oil, which now are allowed to escape as waste gases from oil wells, refineries and storage tanks at the rate of 300,000,000 cubic feet per year. This wastage has been increasing as gasoline production multiplied.

Scientists at the Gulf Refining company laboratory, scene of the first part of the tour of the group, said that a portion of their process is secret. It consists essentially, however, of compressing the gas into a liquid and rearranging the molecules of the hydrocarbons into larger groups by use of catalysts, substances which promote chemical reactions while remaining unchanged.

The resulting liquid product is synthetic gasoline having a high octane number. It is similar to ethyl gasoline in reducing the knocking of motors.

The scientists and engineers are repeating the experience of others who 20 years ago, under pressure of the World war found that coal tar, once thrown away as useless, was a chemical source of a vast number of dyes, pigments and other valuable products formerly bought from Germany.

Weather reporting teletype and broadcasting service has been installed at the Wayne County, Michigan, airport.

More than 25,000 flights were made from the municipal airport of Long Beach, California, during the year ended June 30.

English Consider Killing Incurables

But "Mercy Slaying" Proposal Is Denounced by American Specialists

LONDON (AP)—A campaign to establish "the right of persons suffering from incurable disease to die" was announced Thursday after an English doctor was reported to have admitted five "mercy slayings."

A "kindly faced elderly family doctor," said the Daily Mail, told it in a "confession."

"I've taken on five different occasions. My conscience never prickled me. I still carry with me memories of those cases and the happy faces before they died."

"I've broken the law and, circumstances being similar, I'd do it again. If need be, I'm prepared to face any tribunal in the land."

The doctor said the five cases were: an infant "clearly doomed to imbecility" and four adults suffering from incurable diseases.

Lord Moynihan, one of Britain's most distinguished surgeons, disclosed a campaign to give incurables "the right to die."

"This is a serious proposition," said the peer, who has been an advocate of the formation of a "voluntary euthanasia legislation society."

Lord Moynihan announced that the group to which he and other influential members of the medical profession and clergymen belong, has called a meeting December 10 at headquarters of the British Medical Association in London to propose "laying the whole proposition before the country."

"The right to die is gaining support throughout the nation," continued the peer, "and we believe we will not find opposition except from Roman Catholics, who are objecting for obvious reasons."

Condemned in U. S.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Internationally known specialists united Thursday night in condemning the "mercy-killing" of so-called incurable patients.

No doctor has the right to take a patient's life, because he has no way of being certain a case is incurable, it was agreed by American and foreign specialists, here for a clinical meeting.

Dr. Henri Coutard of Paris, chief of staff of the Curie Institute, said: "Often in the medical arts, we make mistakes."

"We don't know sufficiently the conditions of the disease ever to take the step. Life is too big a thing to take away. Even in the case of cancer cases it is possible to give some substance for the relief of pain."

"Men born crippled or feeble-minded have been responsible for some of the great works of art."

Dr. Max Cutler, director of the tumor clinic of Michael Reese hospital of Chicago, declared:

"We do not have the moral right even to consider any course medically except one which represents an effort to bring about the recovery of the patient."

"Why? Because of our lack of un-

anything happens to the Emperor the front.

Asa Wosen, this name means "expand frontiers," could easily be elevated to the throne. Ethiopeans point out that since Selassie's title is "king of kings," he possesses the right to have kings under him.

In 1928 during the reign of the Emperor Zauditu, aunt of Haile Selassie, he was crowned king while holding the title of crown prince and regent. Two years later, following the emperor's death, the present emperor was invested with the full title "king of kings, anointed of God, and conqueror of the lion of Judah."

Big New 10¢ Can!"

SAYS MRS. W. W. HICKEY, OF CHICAGO, ILL.

"THERE'S a lot of good baking in that 10¢ can of Calumet," observes Mrs. Hickey. "It's worth more than a dime any day!"

"Of course, with my big family I get the full-pound can—and it's only 25¢ now. As long as I bake, Calumet will be in my pantry!"

Grandfather Rommel, who was a baker for 40 years, says: "Calumet takes the guesswork out of the job nowadays."

LOOK AT THE NEW CALUMET CAN! A simple twist... and the Easy-Opening Top lifts off. No delay, no spilling, no broken fingernails!

WHAT makes Calumet so dependable? Why is it different from other baking powders? Calumet combines two distinct leavening actions. A quick action for the rising bowl—set free by liquid. A slower action for the oven—set free by heat. This Double-Action produces perfect leavening.

All Calumet prices are lower! Calumet is now selling at the lowest prices in its history... The regular price of the Full-Pound Can is now only 25¢! And ask to see the new 10¢ can—a lot of good baking for a dime—with Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder. A product of General Foods.

Second Coming of Christ Prophesied

He May Come Before the Close of 1935, Evangelist Asserts

Seven Reasons Why I Believe Christ may come before the close of 1935, was Rev. Bert Webb's subject in his message at the Hope Gospel Tabernacle Thursday night. Two texts were used, John 14:1-3 and Acts 1:9-12.

"It is a historical fact that Christ ascended into glory," said Mr. Webb. If the Holy Spirit of God has been sent back to earth the second coming of Jesus Christ is a positive event that you and I have to look forward to in the near future. People and scholars of most all denominations have acknowledged that the Baptism of the Holy Ghost is a necessity for the church. Some call it sanctification, some the Second Blessing, others believe they receive the experience in Salvation, while others believe that the same manifestations that accompanied the outpouring on the day of Pentecost will be in evidence when people are Baptized with the Holy Spirit.

There are 266 chapters in the New Testament; 306 times in the New Testament the Second Coming of the Lord is referred to. There are some mistaken opinions regarding the second coming of Christ. The event is confused with the Rapture of the Church. Wilbur Glenn Volney set a day and hour for his return, but he failed to appear. Others say that He is coming at all. It is equally foolish to say that He is not coming as it is to set a day and hour. There is a distinct difference in the rapture of the church and the second coming of Jesus Christ. 1 Thes. 4:16-18, where Paul tells us that "The dead in Christ shall rise first," etc., refers to the Rapture, not to the Second Coming of Christ.

One of the indications that the return of the Lord is near is that "Men's hearts are failing them for fear." Not so long ago David Lloyd George, one-time Premier of Great Britain said, "We stand aghast and look in awe upon the world and wonder what to expect next." The uncertainty in the minds of great leaders grouping for away out is expressed by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson of NRA fame when he said "Who can tell where it (the NRA program) might lead us; and he said Arthur Brisbane who in one of his syndicated articles said "We wonder what this excitement (the new deal, etc.) will lead to."

Men's hearts shall wax worse and worse." Another indication of the near approach of Christ's return. Some are saying today that people are getting better and better. The sin and crime of this time bear out the truth of the above scripture. In Germany in 1910 there were only 20,000 atheists. In 1929 there were 1 1/2 million. In the U. S. A. today there is an increasing going over to Communism. One of the prominent Juvenile Judges of Chicago said that only four out of many thousands that he had to pass sentence on had had any Sunday School training at all. I know it to be a fact that in one city officials refused to permit obscene advertisements of certain moving picture to be posted in the city. Bill boards were erected just outside the city, and people thronged to the theater, some standing in line in a downpour of rain for two hours to get in. As the days of Noah were, so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be. Men did not believe the warning of Noah that the flood was coming upon the earth. Doubtless many scoffed at him, but Noah had heard from God and the flood came. Tonight, the only way you can escape the judgment of God is to repent and turn to God.

When Sluggishness Causes Distress After Meals Take BLACK-DRAUGHT

The good that Black-Draught does in the relief of constipation makes it one of the most popular laxatives of its kind. Thousands of men and women keep it in their homes for prompt use at the first sign of intestinal sluggishness.

"I take Black-Draught for constipation that causes a disagreeable feeling after meals, bloating, bad taste and excessive gas," writes Mrs. Eugene West, of Dothan, Ala. "I can cleanse my system and regulate my bowels with Black-Draught and I do not have this trouble. I find Black-Draught splendid. I recommend it to others. My husband takes Black-Draught and it helps him." Black-Draught is purely vegetable. Sold in 25-cent packages. —adv.

The Jew—the great barometer of God's prophecies. A recent issue of the Sunday School Times calls attention to a prophecy of Jeremiah over two thousand years ago that is being fulfilled today. Mr. Davis and surveyors check out and found that the boundaries of Jerusalem are now what

Jeremiah prophesied they would be when Israel returned. Jer. 31:8 says "Behold I will bring them from the North country." When the Zionist movement started some years ago, the Jews of Germany refused to co-operate, but today they are glad for the opportunity of going to Palestine. Momentous things from a prophetic standpoint are happening in Palestine today. Irrigation projects are causing the "Desert to Blossom as a Rose." The Jews somehow have not intermarried with other races as other nations have and are no wretches to their land in great numbers. However, in the face of God's word, fulfilled prophecies, and all, many people will not believe. The Lord
